

ALEXA SINGER

Model turned photographer, Alexa Singer is deeply inspired by the natural world. Often shooting on location in settings that range from deserts to lily ponds, Alexa's fashion and lifestyle work captures a sense of dreamy wanderlust and zest for life. Alexa began her career as a model, working with photographers such as Richard Avedon, Irving Penn and Herb Ritz and appearing on 17 Vogue covers by the time she was 19. Today, Alexa brings a relaxed energy to shoots, and enjoys directing creatively from behind the lens. Her most notable campaign to work on to date was the Hansgrohe calendar which was shot on location in Namibia. Alexa was included in Lürzer's Archive 200 Best Ad Photographers 2012/2013, and has worked on global campaigns.
